History Day L.A.

2013 Theme: Turning Points in History: People, Ideas, Events

Saturday, March 2, 2013

Azusa Pacific University
701 East Foothill Blvd.
Azusa, CA 91702

The 33rd Annual History Day L.A. will be held on Saturday, March 2, 2013 at Azusa Pacific University, located at 701 East Foothill Blvd., Azusa, CA 91702-7000. The theme for 2013 is Turning Points in History: People, Ideas, Events

History Day L.A. is part of a national program that encourages students to prepare posters, exhibits, papers, websites, performances, and documentary presentations on a historical theme. These projects will be judged by community members and social science professionals. Participation in History Day L.A. provides opportunities for students to meet content standards and improve academic achievement. As an authentic performance assessment measure, teachers can utilize History Day projects to easily assess the knowledge and skills of their students.

Students, teachers, and parents attending History Day L.A. on March 2, 2013 will have a chance to view student posters, exhibits, historical performances and documentaries, attend the Awards ceremony, and tour Azusa Pacific University.
