You are invited to attend the Community Prevention Initiative (CPI) Professional Competency No-Cost Training titled Grant Writing: Developing and Maintaining Substance Use Disorder (SUD) Prevention Programs.

Training Description:
Funding is an ongoing challenge for any prevention program, and grant writing is a key strategy to increase your support and sustain your program into the future. This workshop covers the do’s and don’ts of grant writing, and provides insight into how to find potential grants, how to respond to requests for applications, what to include (and leave out) of your applications, and how to maximize the chances of winning a grant.

About the Trainer:
A former nonprofit director, Dana Goodrow, has Masters degrees in social work and public health, as well as an undergraduate degree and eight years’ experience in journalism. She has served as a consultant to organizations around the State of California on projects ranging from strategic planning to evaluation. Her areas of expertise include organizational capacity building, board development, strategic planning, social media, advocacy, evaluation, mentoring, and adolescent health.

Registration Information: Kari DeCelle, Community Prevention Initiative (CPI), at kdecelle@cars-rp.org

CPI is funded through the California Department of Health Care Services, Substance Use Disorder Prevention, Treatment & Recovery Services Division (DHCS) with training and technical assistance (TTA) administered through the Center for Applied Research Solutions (CARS). The TTA project is intended to serve California agencies and organizations involved in community-based prevention. CPI is able to provide no-cost TTA support for planning and prevention services that include a broad community perspective.
