

Supporting the Transformative Work of Community Schools Across Los Angeles County

The Greater Los Angeles Regional Transformational Assistance Center (R-TAC) provides collective and individualized support to all grantees of the California Community Schools Partnership Program (CCSPP) across eight subregions in L.A. County.

Each subregion is led by an R-TAC Coordinator who facilitates learning opportunities and provides differentiated coaching and support to local educational agencies (LEAs) and school sites, working closely with school leadership, educators and staff to implement the community schools strategy. Our support is tailored to the unique needs of each school community, empowering schools in their transformational efforts.

At the core of R-TAC's work is a commitment to equity and fostering a racially just and restorative school climate. By encouraging collaborative leadership and using asset and strength-based practices, we elevate the strengths and wisdom within each community. Our approach prioritizes culturally proficient and relevant instruction, ensuring that the diverse identities of all students are honored. Through these efforts, we drive school transformation and foster an inclusive environment that champions the success of students, families and their communities.
